WAR SUMMARY OF THE LATEST EVENTS

It is between seasons on the western front. The worst of the winter is over, the days lengthen noticeably, the crocus and the snowdrops begin to push their way up to the sunlight and the ground, saturated with the rains of the past three months, becomes less spongy daily. In another month it will be dry enough to permit of the free movement of heavy guns. Until it does there is no prospect of any prolonged offensive movement. Shells of 4, 6 and 8 inch diameter filled with high explosives are required for the destruction of trench parapets as a preliminary to a general advance on either side, and the guns capable of firing them cannot be moved easily till the fields dry out. Were it possible to move them along existing roads operations might be proceeded with all winter, but before going into action the heavy artillery has to be hidden skillfully in some unlikely place, usually a grove of trees. By the roadside the guns would be too easy a mark for the opposing artillery. The first important advance last spring after the rainfall of January was on March 11. This season the rains have been fully as heavy as they were last year.

Local engagements and even partial advances continue. The British official report Wednesday night states that the Germans attacked the British positions along the Ypres-Pillen road. The attack was not preceded by an artillery bombardment, and was easily driven back by the British fire. The French midnight report is an unbroken record of artillery actions. Near the Lille road in the village of Vimy three explosions occurred following upon a bombardment of the German positions, and north of the Aisne a German column was caught on the march by the fire of the French guns.

The details of the capture of the Appam and a number of other British vessels by the alleged German cruiser Moewe are coming out, and it looks as if serious trouble is brewing for some supposedly neutral nation—a South American Republic, or perhaps Spain. The captain of a British steamer captured by the raider declares that she is no cruiser, as the Germans assert, but a converted merchant ship, built at Bremerhaven in 1914 for the fruit trade, and originally named Ponga. Below the deck while he was a prisoner upon her Captain Barton saw a plate with the name Ponga engraved upon it. The vessel was heavily armed, and her upper deck had been strengthened to carry half a dozen guns of almost six-inch calibre. What country was the

STELLA.

The crossing on the ice from the island to the main land is still dangerous for walking, owing to so much mild weather the islanders have had a long siege. Ever since the steamer Wolfe Islander made her last trip on December 21st they have been isolated. The merchants are rapidly running out of supplies and are unable to replenish their stock. The grist mill is run by gasoline and the fuel for this is becoming scarce.

The public school in S.S., No. 2, is closed owing to an epidemic of measles, being in that section.

while he was a prisoner upon her Captain Barton saw a plate with the name Ponga engraved upon it. The vessel was heavily armed, and her upper deck had been strengthened to carry half a dozen guns of almost six-inch calibre. What country was the Ponga registered in? Where was this peaceful merchantman converted into a powerful armed vessel? How did her crew reach her? The new Alabama case has some novel features—but the new Alabama will not have as lengthy a career as the vessel that drove United States shipping from the seas fifty years ago. The net is undoubtedly being drawn around the Moewe, alias Ponga, already somewhere near the Canaries.

The war on the border of Bukowina has become an affair of trenches and mines, in which, despite heavy losses, neither the Russians nor the Austrians make much headway. The Austrians instead of evacuating the region between the Dniester and the Pruth have entrenched there in much the same way as the Germans have done on the western front.

The hesitation observable in proceeding with the attack on Saloniki is due to the fear of unduly "thinning" the lines of the Germanic powers. The Turk has now been enlisted in the campaign as well as the Bulgar, and Germany will supply only a sufficient number of men to give backbone to the cosmopolitan army that will assail the Franco-British positions under Field Marshall Mackensen, who is said to be at Monastir preparing for the campaign. The first important offensive stroke was the attack launched on Saloniki by a German Zeppelin.

The Germans are said to be hard at work perfecting aeroplanes of great climbing capacity and a speed of 100 miles an hour. As soon as spring opens these new machines will, it is said, swarm over the lines of the Allies. The answer to this comes from Gustav Herve, who, after having access to details which he cannot reveal, assures the French people that they now have armed aeroplanes able to climb like elevators, and capable of catching up with Zeppelins at any height.

EPWORTH LEAGUE CONVENTION

A GREAT EPWORTH LEAGUE CONVENTION WAS HELD IN NAPANEE.

This great society of the Methodist church was very warmly welcomed to the town, whose people are so largely Methodist. Napanee is the very cradle of Methodism, which has become such a mighty power for God in all Canada.

The Twelfth Biennial Convention of the Bay of Quinte Conference, E. L., met at Napanee on 1st, 2nd and 3rd of February, in Grace and Trinity churches.

After the registration and billeting, the Tuesday afternoon session was opened by Rev. S. T. Tucker, B.A., B.D., of Deseronto, the president of the convention, and was assisted in devotional services by Rev. C. E. Cragg, of Grace church, and Rev. Wm. Higgs, of Millbrook, and Rev. A. H. Foster, of Whitby, Secretary of the Convention.

Mr. Tucker, in his address spoke of the great needs of the Empire at this time. The Empire must have men to insure victory. This need is no greater than that of the church at the present time. We must have men enlisting in the Kingdom of Christ. "The harvest truly is great but the labourers are few."

What does enlistment mean? We need to identify ourselves with the Christian's God. It must be a part of our very being.

Enlistment in the church is voluntary, not compulsory. By so doing we are entering into a greater field of service. The great lesson we will learn from the war is "Service for Others." He spoke to the young men. "The Church needs you, the country needs you, we would like to see you enlisting in the service of God. We pray that as a result of this convention many young people will catch the vision and be true soldiers of the Kingdom of God; that the Bay of Quinte Conference Epworth League may be a stronger spiritual power than ever before.

Mrs. Root then favored us with a violin solo.

Rev. A. L. Phelps gave an address on "Canadian Poets."

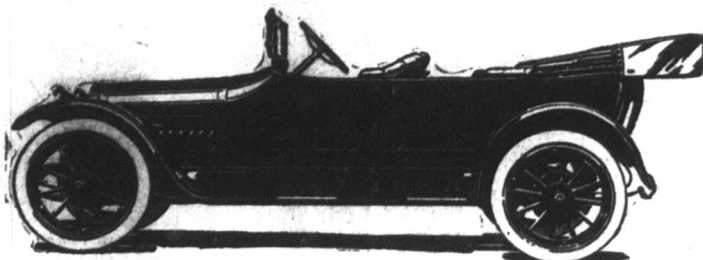

Some of his thoughts were "we must pass through and understand literature at large, before we can have a national literature. Religious sentimentalism is dangerous—it should be mixed with with quantities. One of which should be "vitality of knowledge." Forming study classes along different lines would open up new realms and give us that vitality of knowledge." Science makes for knowledge—poetry makes for culture. Examples were given us "O God, our Help in ages past" and etc., is poetry. "Brightly gleams our banner," and etc., not poetry. Use of poetry:

3. Exalts emotion.

This closed the afternoon session.
 The evening session was held in Grace Methodist church, which was very artistically decorated. Devotional services were conducted by Rev. R.
 A. Whatham, of Peterboro, and Rev.
 H. B. Kenny, of Cobourg, President of the Quinte Conference, led in prayer. Rev. J. G. Lewis, of Peterboro, read the Scripture lesson.

The chairman's address by Rev. R.
 A. Whatham, was next. He spoke of the welcome in Napanee, a great Methodist town.

Religion is the heart of all life. It is through the missionary work that the allies are certain of India.

The choir then rendered a beautiful anthem.

Mr. C. G. Evans, of Napanee, who represented the two Leagues of this town came to the platform to give an address of welcome. He said that they felt a deep feeling of honour in having such an assemblage here. As delegates, we had gathered here from all parts of the conference to a convention. At this time we realize what it is to a follower of Christ. He spoke of the first convention in the upper room where the 120 persons recived inspiration to go forth to win the world for Christ.

This is the opportunity for us to go out to win fellowmen for Christ. This is why we welcome you to-night.

The main feature of the evening program consisted of two eloquent
 and forceful missionary addresses.
 Mr. C. W. Burr, of Bloomfield, gave an excellent address on the subject of missions. He said that missions stood for unlimited power in the spiritual world, as electricity in the commercial world. Missions have made their greatest increase during the last 25 years. Referring to the various fields
 he said that India has made great progress, and owes her roads, postal service and other useful improvements to Christian missions, and to-day, India counts her converts by millions.

In China, every door is open and the people are asking for the gospel
 which is much needed to combat the evil influences of unscrupulous commercialism, which is trying to force
 manifold evils upon the life of China.

In Japan, Methodism has an annual conference presided over by a native
 Japanese, yet only 1 out of every 1,000
 of its population is an avowed Christian.

In Canada, our great west presents
 her problems with their corresponding responsibilities and opportunities. The people, diversified by nationality and custom, can only be unified by the gospel of Christ. The question to each League is, "What is my individual duty"? We must look up and lift up for Christ and the Church.
 Does our spirit ring true? Are we in earnest? Are we helping to answer our prayer, "Thy Kingdom Come."
 We have a duty before the great mass
 of foreigners in our country of living the Christ-like life. We must advance on our knees. Lloyd George says in reference to the present war that our nation will win when she gets on her knees, so in our missionary propaganda we will win the world for Christ as we more and more spend time in prayer.

An excellent quartette was then rendered by the choir, after which a most inspiring address was given by Rev. W. J. Wood, of Picton, on the subject of missions.

ENGULFED IN MARSHES.

Germans Around Pinsk Are in a Terrible Condition.

LONDON, Feb. 1.—A Reuter despatch from Petrograd says that prisoners taken during the last few days by the Russians confirm reports of the terrible condition of the German troops in the Pinsk marshes, where a rapid thaw released such vast quantities of subterranean water that all the enemy works have been wrecked as completely as if they had been bombarded by heavy batteries.

Not only have thousands of caissons, quantities of munitions, and numerous guns been engulfed, the despatch says, but various entrenched detachments of troops, and often large ones, have been cut off, and, having been unable to extricate themselves from the marshy labyrinth, they perished miserably.

Enemy Losses Heavy.

ROME, Feb. 1.—The official statement issued by General Headquarters yesterday reads:

"Along the entire front artillery activity has been favored by clear weather. On the middle Isonzo one of our batteries bombarded the railway station at Santa Lucia, in the Tolmino sector.

"Enemy hostile artillery fired a few shells on the village of San Martino di Quiscale, causing some casualties among the inhabitants. Prisoners confirm that heavy losses were suffered by the Austrians, particularly by the 37th Landwehr Regiment, during the recent fighting on the heights west of Goritz."

Allied Bomb Work Have on Bul-

LONDON, Feb. 1.—An Athens despatch says:

"Allied aviators flew over the camp
of the German and Bulgarian troops
at Bazarli, north-west of Lake Doiran, dropping bombs and doing considerable damage, according to reports here. Many soldiers were killed. The enemy troops were thrown into a panic. The aviators returned safely to their base."

The French official report says:

"On Jan. 28 a flotilla of 14 French aeroplanes dropped projectiles on the enemy encampments at Bazarli, to the north of Lake Doiran."

Athens confirms the occupation by marines from French, British and Italian warships of the Greek fort of Karabar, which guards the entrance to Salonica harbor. The occupation took place early yesterday morning. It marks the first appearance of Italian and Russian forces on Greek soil and the first land operations in which troops of all four of the allied nations have participated.

The landing was effected over the protest of the Greek commander. According to the Athens despatches, the allied warships appeared in the gulf of Salonica off the peninsula at daybreak. Boats were quickly sent ashore with 2,000 marines, the Greek commander being notified by messenger of their intention. He withdrew his troops at once, after protesting.

A number of Greek officials who are reported to have joined the commander of the fort in their protests against the action, have declared that it was carried out by the forces of all four nations with the purpose of intimidating Greece by a show of the power of the Quadruple Entente.

gregates, together with the Bulgar-

The visit of Premier Briand of France to Rome has been postponed until early in February. This is said to be, in spite of the reports to the contrary, because the situation in Albania is much improved, the Austrian advance southward being held in abeyance by the flooded country.
It is explained in official quarters
that because of these conditions Dur-

no attack on Avlona is imminent.

ZEPPELIN RAIDS PARIS.

Twenty-Four Persons Are Killed and Twenty-Seven Injured.

PARIS, Feb. 1.—A Zeppelin dirigible passed swiftly over a section of Paris Saturday night, dropping about a dozen great bombs, which killed 24 persons and injured 27.

The raid lasted about one minute and a half. The fog seriously interfered with the work of the Paris aerial guard.

The fact that only one German machine appeared leads to the belief that the Zeppelin was making a re-connoitring trip, and the supposition is that the Germans have in view a similar operation on a larger scale.

Fifty-two persons were killed or wounded in the raid, according to the more complete reports available yes-

Report From Dominion's Forces in France Says Canadian Rifle and Machine-Gun Fire is Far Superior to That of the Enemy—Vancouver Man Wins the Distinguished Conduct Medal.

OTTAWA, Feb. 1.—Major-General
Sir Sam Hughes has received the following communique from the Canadian general representative in France:

"Canadian General Headquarters
in France, via London, Jan. 30.— During the week, Jan. 19-26, the general situation on the Canadian front has undergone no material change. The weather has been mild and for the most part fine.

"The superiority of our artillery has been well maintained. Several direct hits have been obtained on hostile machine gun emplacements,
and more than one enemy's trench
mortar has been silenced by our fire.

"On Jan. 19 our first field artillery brigade combined with our howitzers
in shelling a house used by the enemy as an observation post. One end of the building was completely demolished. Quantities of sandbags and lumber were observed among the ruins. The enemy's retaliation has not been very effective. On one occasion shrapnel hit his own parapets and his larger shells have repeatedly failed to explode.

"No combats between aeroplanes
have been recorded over our lines.
Several times hostile machines, acting in conjunction with the German artillery, have been beaten back by our anti-aircraft and machine guns.
On the afternoon of Jan. 24 a Zeppelin crossed the Canadian area.

"Rifle and machine gun fire has been unusually brisk on both sides.
Enemy snipers have been active, but our snipers have caused numerous casualties among the enemy. On Jan. 24 Lance-Corporal Mintie, of the 27th City of Winnipeg Battalion, by accurate shooting accounted for two Germans out of a party of five. The enemy working parties have frequently been detected by our observers and dispersed by the fire of our snipers and machine gunners.

"The enemy has displayed little enterprise in patrolling. The few German patrols encountered have in every case retired to their trenches

THE COMING CHARMER.

We wait for June impatiently,
The month of sun and roses,
For simple man then takes a brace
And to his love proposes.
It's Cupid's own and special month,
And in the line of wooing
When men and maidens take a stroll
There's always something doing.

The robins in the apple tree
Sing to the swain, "Get busy!"
When sweet sixteen comes walking by His youthful head grows dizzy,
And both of them have heard about
The season of romances,
And neither wants to overlook
Or pass up any chances.

It is a very charming sight
To see a youthful lover
Shine up his shoes and slick his hair
And round a maiden hover.
It doesn't seem to worry her.
She welcomes his advances,
As any one in sight may know
By noticing her glances.

That's what we may expect in June,
The storied month for mating,
The month for which we sit around
And waste the moments waiting.
And any one who's seen it work
Is fortified with hunches
That there will be romance to burn, Engagements done in bunches.

is that the Germans have in view a similar operation on a larger scale. Fifty-two persons were killed or wounded in the raid, according to the more complete reports available yesterday. Nine women were killed and 14 wounded; 14 men were killed and 15 wounded. Included among the killed was a baby of 18 months. Two children were injured. Ten houses were damaged by the raiders. Three houses were scenes of eight killed and injured each. In another house seven persons were killed or injured.

One of the houses in which the most serious damage was done was a home in which the family had met to celebrate the return of a son, a Zouave, on leave of absence from the front. Around the table were the grandfather, 66 years old; his daughter, the latter's husband, and aunt, two sons, and a girl of 15 years. Seven mutilated corpses were found in the wreckage of the house.

Anti-German Rioting in Switzerland.

LAUSANNE, Feb. 1.—Notwith- standing the presence of troops, riot- ing again broke out Friday night in the vicinity of the German Consulate. More than 100 arrests were made.

The disturbance occurred after a brief period of tranquility, following two previous outbreaks. There was rioting in front of the residence of the German Consul, R. Filsinger, as well as near the Consulate. The dis- orders began at eleven o'clock, and it was two hours later before the police, assisted by Landwehr, restored order.

Camille de Coppet, President of the Republic, arrived at Lausanne to make an investigation.

Russians Put to Torture.

PETROGRAD, Feb. 1.—The Rus- sian army headquarters has issued a long official statement concerning the attitude of the Austrians toward Russian prisoners. The statement tells the experience of six soldiers who escaped from captivity in Aus- tria. It declares that they and five hundred of their comrades refused to dig trenches and hence were tortur- ed, four of their number being shot on June 14 at the village of Hossen- zass, near Innsbruck. The execution- ers, the statement says, were cadets who volunteered for the task.

Gas Stove Caused Death.

BRANTFORD, Feb. 1.—Hector Eleckson, an employe of the Crown Electric Company, of this city, was found dead from asphyxiation in his room at noon yesterday. In the room was a gas stove, from which fumes had evidently been escaping since the night before. An inquest was de- cided unnecessary. Eleckson's wife and two children live at 2336 Clark street, Montreal.

"The enemy has displayed little enterprise in patrolling. The few German patrols encountered have in every case retired to their trenches on the approach of our patrols. Our reconnoitering parties and scouts have on various occasions cut the German wire and bombed the enemy working parties. The German bombs have twice been brought back to our lines by our patrols.

"On the night of Jan. 23-24 Scouts Bole, Gunn, and Matkin, of our 8th Winnipeg battalion, while near the enemy wire, observed two parties of Germans moving in the opposite direction. Crawling forward our scout opened fire with revolvers on the enemy party of five, wounding one German and forcing the hostile patrol to retire. Shortly afterwards the enemy reappeared. Our scouts fired, killing one German. After returning to our lines for more ammunition the scouts again went out and observed stretcher-bearers carrying away dead and wounded.

"On the night of Jan. 24-25 a patrol of our 19th Western Ontario bat- talion, under Lieutenants Hooper and Burnham, cut a path through the German wire up to the enemy parapet. The location of the enemy working party was ascertained. After the return of our patrol our machine guns were turned on the working party. On the following night this patrol, passing through a gap cut in the wire, entered the German trench and creeping up to the German sentry endeavored to capture him. A scuffle ensued which aroused the enemy in nearby dugouts. Our patrol withdrew without a casualty.

"The Distinguished Conduct Medal has recently been awarded to Private Harris, of the 29th City of Vancouver battalion, for an exceptionally courageous act. Private Harris was attending the Grenade School in De- cember and while throwing a live bomb slipped and fell. The bomb rolled into a trench in which a num- ber of men were standing. All of those except one were able to gain cover. Harris, who saw that this man was unable to move, flung him- self without hesitation on top of the bomb in an effort to save his com- rade. Almost immediately the bomb exploded. Harris was very seriously injured and the other man's leg broken. Both men are reported to be doing well.

"Another deed of exceptional gal- lantry has recently been reported. On January 11 a large mortar shell was thrown into a trench of our Thirty-first Alberta battalion at a point where Private A. H. Jackson and a party of men were at work. The shells are dangerous and de- structive. Realizing there was little chance for any of the party. Private Jackson threw himself on the bomb and at the risk of being blown to pieces, seized the burning base fuse and wrenched it out."

The amount of egotism that some people manage to flourish with is a matter of constant astonishment to most modest mortals.

Some misinformation has such a convincing sound that it is so hard to resist it.

Easy of Access.

The path that leads to trouble
Is not so hard to find.
And one may stumble on it
If he is so inclined.

Just let him own an auto,
And I have got a hunch
Most any road he travels
He'll find it in a bunch.

But that is quite expensive.
There are some cheaper ways
If he will go about it
To find where trouble strays.
If in a family racket
He tries to smooth things o'er He'll get enough, I'm thinking,
To stock a good sized store.

Or he might slyly venture
To kick a neighbor's cat
If he would in a hurry
See trouble come to bat.
He might when some one warbles
Upon the patient air Express his true opinion
And get it then and there.

He need not run a circus.
He need not own a coat,
Alone he need not venture
To price a lady's coat.
He need not buy an airship
And flutter in the air,
He need not lift a finger—
There's trouble everywhere.

STRENUOUS PASTIME.

The Whip Game as Played by Natives of British Guiana.

Of all the games it has been my lot to witness the most strenuous was the whip game I saw in British Guiana. Before the game the women handeu around bowls of the native drink, "pai-warie."

Then the players, men and boys, lined up in two rows facing each other. Each carried a whip ornamented with fiber tassels, those of the two end players having whistles attached.

A gentle stamping began, which gradually grew louder till the earth seemed to throb.

Shouts of "Yau au!" rang along the line, and the players waved their whips and swayed gently backward and forward as they stamped.

Presently the two end men passed down between the rows, while those lined up moved slowly in the opposite direction. In rotation the other pairs of men did likewise, and then the whistle men ran swiftly to their original places. The stamping increased in fury, and the whistlers whistled at each other in wild excitement.

They raised their whips and feigned to lash out at each other without much hurt.

The women ran up and down the rows offering their calabashes of "pai-warie," and then the real whipping began.

Two men challenged each other to a contest, and the rows retired, still stamping. The whippers, splendidly built fellows, stripped save for loin cloths, were a thrilling sight as they cautiously judged their distances, letting their whips just touch each other's legs.

Then one of them stood firmly and half turned away from the other. Immediately his whip sang through the air and came down on his opponent's calf with a crack. The victim did not flinch, but joined his whippers in a wild sort of dance.

Again and again he submitted to the lash, and then it was the other's turn. I cannot say who won—both were stoics of tremendous endurance. I would have called the bout a draw.

Then the two whippers retired to an adjoining hut, where they indulged freely in "pai-warie," and others of the challenging rows took their places in the game, which lasted until the rows were exhausted.—Temple Manning, in Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Antiquity of the Organ.

The organ is the most magnificent and comprehensive of all musical instruments. While the pipes of Pan, aside from that mythical personage, indicate a very ancient use of pipes as a means of producing musical sounds, the "water organ of the ancients" furnishes to the student of organ history the first tangible clew regarding the remote evolution of the instrument. In the second century the magripha, an organ of ten pipes with a crude keyboard, is said to have existed, but accounts of this instrument are involved in much obscurity. It is averred that an organ, the gift of Constantine, was in the possession of King Pepin of France in 757, but Aldhelm, a monk, makes mention of an organ with "gilt pipes" as far back as the year 700.

SERPENTS AS HYPNOTISTS.

The Charm They Use on Animals They Succumb to Themselves.

Cases of fascination by serpents of birds and other small animals have been too frequently reported to admit of serious doubt on the subject. Evidently it is simply a kind of hypnotism and based, like human hypnotism, on the effects of rhythmical impressions made upon the nervous system.

Experiment has proved that the monotonous swiveling of a glittering object before the eyes will throw many men and women into hypnotic sleep. When a serpent charms or fascinates a bird or small quadruped it employs a similar method. It sways its head with glittering eyes or sets its brilliantly colored coils into silent rhythmic movement within sight of its victim, and the latter gradually yields to the influence.

But the most dangerous serpents are themselves subject to this very hypnotic control, a fact which is the basis of the proceedings of the serpent charmers of India and those of other countries where venomous snakes abound.

Music, or the monotonous repetition of musical notes, appears to be the most effective agent in serpent charming. It may be remarked that according to some observers the sounds produced by a rattlesnake, and even the loud hissing of some serpents, have a hypnotic influence, or at least a sort of paralyzing force, due probably to terror. The cobras of southern Asia and the closely related najas of Africa will come out of holes, erect their heads and a part of their bodies and sway about in a kind of serpent dance when they hear the notes of a pipe played by a skilled performer.

However, no cobra charmer ever has sufficient confidence in his control over his dangerous subjects to neglect the removal of their fangs.

A cobra bite has been known to kill a man within a few minutes of its infliction.

Hamburg's Unique Ferry.

Hamburg possesses a steam ferry of a somewhat original type, for the main deck can be raised and lowered by suitable machinery in order to take up a difference of level of some sixteen feet. The large structural framework rises to a considerable height and is intended to guide the whole platform in its vertical movements. By the use of powerful electric winches it is possible to raise and lower the deck as a whole, even when it is loaded with numerous heavy vehicles, such as are used in landing material at the port. The reason for adopting this arrangement of the deck lies in the fact that at the Hamburg port the difference in tide level is considerable, so that when the boat lands at the wharf it is by no means on the same level at all times and in the ordinary case the heavy vehicles would be obliged to mount or descend a steep incline. It is in order to avoid this drawback that the present type of ferry was constructed, and as the movable deck can always be brought flush with the level of the dock, the vehicles can now run off in the ordinary way.

CURIOUS FISHING C

The Feast That Follows the Capture of a Turtle in Madagascar

Some of the turtles of the Indian Ocean are oval in form and very plump; others are much flatter. In order to catch the flat ones, the natives go out to sea in the evening when the ocean is very calm, and the turtles come to the surface to enjoy their morning nap. A kind of harpoon about two feet long, shod with a piece of barbed iron, is attached to a strong rope about a hundred yards in length. The fisherman, with great care, says James S. Hensley, a Naturalist in Madagascar, approaches the sleeping turtle. It is struck it dives down and the fisherman, if he goes to the rope, dives with it, to make the first blow a mortal one.

As soon as the turtle is captured, the natives make for the shore, where people gather to share in the feast. No one is allowed to bring the turtle from a house to the spot. It must be wrenched open piece by piece with the knives of the natives. The turtle is then cooked in its own shell or in pieces of turtle shell. The flesh can be taken into the house and cooked or eaten there, and several other precautions are observed, and if the religiously observed the turtle disappears, according to the natives, according to the natives.

The natives of the north give a curious account of the way they catch the hamby, which is as long as a man's arm and as thick as a man's thigh. Its dorsal fin, say, is like a brush, and it is with a sticky liquid not. When it catches another it with this sticky brush, it cannot get away. It makes use of this peculiar own fishing. When they catch a hamby they confine it in a net which they fasten in the feed the hamby daily with or small fish, and when it use it they tie a long cord to the tail and follow in a canoe. When they fasten on a fish they pull it up and seize the spoil for themselves.

Bulls In Parliament.

Lord Londonderry once threw the house of lords into roars of laughter during the debate on the second reading of the Irish land bill by gravely declaring that "this is the reason why you have failed to settle the Irish land question in the future as you have done in the past."

In the course of the same speech he concluded a period with: "This is the keystone of the bill. Are you going to kill it?"

Better still was a sentence which he uttered in 1897 when speaking once more on the Irish land question—"That, your lordship will see," referring to a quotation he had just made. "Indorses up to the hilt what I have said."—London Tatler.

Burns as a Tax Collector.

In the olden days candles were taxed articles, and it was the duty of Robert Burns as an excise officer to see that the tax was not evaded. He generally looked the other way, however, as when passing through the kitchen one night at William Loximer's of Kennishall, where the gudewife was busy making candles, he merely remarked, "Faith, madam, ye're thrang the night," and passed into the parlor.

Outlawry.

Outlawry existed in England and Scotland from very early days. Earl Godwin and Hereward the Wake were famous political outlaws. At one time the sentence was used to punish any one who would not pay the "were," or blood money, to the relatives of a man he had killed. In civil proceedings it was abolished in 1879. In the old days an outlaw could be killed whenever or wherever he was encountered, but this part of the penalty was abolished.

Rusty Steel.

Onions are good for cleaning steel articles that have rusted. Rub the rust spots with a piece of onion and leave for twenty-four hours. Wash and polish with bath brick dust, moistened with turpentine. Wash again in suds and scald with clear water. Knives that have rust spots of long standing should be plunged into an onion and allowed to stand for some time. Finish the cleaning process as above.

Testing Typewriter Ribbon.

Typewriter ribbons that produce an indelible impression are made from carbon. The cheaper qualities are made from aniline. To tell whether a ribbon is of the best or of the cheapest quality it is only necessary to soak a bit of it in alcohol, scrape its surface and spread the matter thus obtained upon a bit of white blotting paper. If the spot is black all over the ribbon is of aniline, which is soluble in alcohol; if, on the contrary, the black spot does not spread, but is surrounded by a halo of uncolored moisture, then it is of carbon, which is insoluble in alcohol.

The Name Raleigh.

Among variant spellings of names perhaps the most remarkable instance occurs in a deed of the year 1587 relating to the property of the Raleigh family. It bears the signatures of Raleigh senior and his two sons, of which one has special interest as being the earliest known signature of Sir Walter. By the father the name is written "Ralegh," by the elder son "Rawlegh," and by Sir Walter it is written "Rauleygh." By Queen Elizabeth it was written "Rawley," as then pronounced. It also appeared in Sir Walter's lifetime as "Rawlye."—London Tatler.

Our Eccentric Phrases.

Why do we always talk of putting on a coat and vest? Who puts on a coat before a vest? We also say putting on shoes and stockings. Who puts on shoes before the stockings? We also put up signs telling people to wipe their feet when we mean their boots or shoes. And a father tells a boy he will warm his jacket when he means to warm his pantaloons. We are a little eccentric in our phrases at times.

Balm of Gilead.

The real balm of Gilead is the dried juice of a low shrub which grows in Syria. It is very valuable and scarce, for the amount of balm yielded by one shrub never exceeded sixty drops a day. According to Josephus, the balm or balsam of Gilead was one of the presents given by the queen of Sheba to King Solomon. The ancient Jewish physicians prescribed it evidently for dyspepsia and melancholia.

Health for Sick Women

For Forty Years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Has Been Woman's Most Reliable Medicine—Here is More Proof.

To women who are suffering from some form of woman's special ills, and have a constant fear of breaking down, the three following letters ought to bring hope:—

North Crandon, Wis.—"When I was 16 years old I got married and at 18 years I gave birth to twins and it left me with very poor health. I could not walk across the floor without having to sit down to rest and it was hard for me to keep about and do my work. I went to a doctor and he told me I had a displacement and ulcers, and would have to have an operation. This frightened me so much that I did not know what to do. Having heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I thought I would give it a trial and it made me as well as ever. I cannot say enough in favor of the Pinkham remedies."—MRS. MAYME ASBACH, North Crandon, Wis.

Testimony from Oklahoma.

Lawton, Okla.—"When I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I seemed to be good for nothing. I tired easily and had headaches much of the time and was irregular. I took it again before my little child was born and it did me a wonderful amount of good at that time. I never fail to recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to ailing women because it has done so much for me."—MRS. A. L. McCASLAND, 509 Have St., Lawton, Okla.

From a Grateful Massachusetts Woman.

Roxbury, Mass.—"I was suffering from inflammation and was examined by a physician who found that my trouble was caused by a displacement. My symptoms were bearing down pains, backache, and sluggish liver. I tried several kinds of medicine; then I was asked to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It has cured me and I am pleased to be in my usual good health by using it and highly recommend it."—MRS. B. M. OSGOOD, 1 Haynes Park, Roxbury, Mass.

AN APPALLING LACK IN EVERYDAY LIFE

Great Need of Awakening on the Subject of Justice.

Neglect of the Principle of Justice Very Manifest To-day—God's People Should Cultivate This

Israel amounted to this: "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." To do justice to your neighbor as you wish that neighbor to do justice to you is the epitome of the Law.

During the Law Dispensation a special Covenant was made with Israel. None others have ever been under that Law Covenant. But in His statement of His Law to Spiritual Israel, God has "magnified the Law"—has made its requirements clearer and has shown how far reaching they are. None question the propriety of dealing justly by every one in the world. The principle of justice enters

Neglect of the Principle of Justice
Very Manifest To-day — God's People Should Cultivate This Principle Carefully—Their Responsibility Great—Justice the Foundation of True Character.

PASTOR RUSSELL

Fort Wayne,
Indiana, Jan. 23.
Pastor Russell
delivered a very impressive discourse here today. His text was, "Awake to righteousness,
and sin not; for some have not
the knowledge of God. I speak this to your shame,"
—1 Corinthians 15:34.
This exhorta-
tion, the Pastor said, is addressed not to the world, but to Christians, as are all the Apostolic writings. He then paraphrased his text, in order to bring out more clearly St. Paul's thought: "Awake to a proper appreciation of justice; do not sin against justice in your own lives; for some have not a knowledge of God respecting justice, the principles of righteousness; and this is to your shame."
According to the Bible, he asserted,
the Church of Christ will be kings,
priests, and judges during the incoming Age; therefore all who hope to share this work should qualify themselves for it.

We may be very sure that God will not give responsible positions to any who are not trained for their work. It is for this reason that for 1900 years past He has been calling out His Church and instructing them through the words of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Apostles and Prophets.
Knowing that our bodies are imperfect through the Adamic fall, the Father is not testing His children according to the body, but to the spirit,
the mind. It is the new mind that becomes the New Creature. We accept God's will instead of our own will, and His plans, purposes, and arrangements instead of our own. Thus God is dealing with us as His children according to this new relationship, and through Christ's merit we are acceptable in His sight.

Justice First, Then Love.

The speaker then demonstrated that justice is the very foundation of all proper character, and that love is the superstructure. The first lesson for all to learn is that of justice. We must learn to recognize what is right,
what is just, and then to practice it.
Righteousness is merely justice. The Law given to the Israelites was designed to show them what justice means. To violate any one of the Ten Commandments would be to practise injustice. God's Law to and has shown now far reaching they are. None question the propriety of dealing justly by every one in the world. The principle of justice enters into every matter. It must be recognized in our dealings with our own family as well as with other people. If all could get this thought of the Golden Rule into the mind, it would revolutionize the whole world.

If this principle were remembered and followed, the people of Europe
would not be shooting one another and making great bombs with which to destroy each other. They would be doing good toward each other,
just as they would wish others to do to them. But men are not living up to this standard of righteousness, of justice. The general excuse is: "It would never do for us to grant to others what we would expect for ourselves, for they would take advantage of us." This is not the fear of God, but the fear of man. God says that we are to practise justice toward one another.

Christians who fear what men and nations may do are living according to the flesh, living like the unbelieving world. Shall we who have come into relationship with God through our Lord Jesus Christ say that we fear to trust this principle of justice in our lives? Shall we say that we dare not carry it out in every thought, word, and action?

Practical Applications.

The Pastor cited many instances wherein the principle of justice could be applied advantageously in the daily affairs of life. He reminded his audience that God has not said that we are to observe the Golden Rule
when others observe it toward us,
and ignore it when others fail to observe it. We are to practise it on every occasion, regardless of what others may do. Then all things shall work together for our everlasting good; for we shall be in line with God and His requirements. He has power to overrule in our lives. The very least that a Christian must do is to be just to others; and to do so will bring us a blessing.

A DELIGHTFUL LECTURE

Those who were fortunate enough to attend the regular meeting of the Historical Society last Friday evening were treated to a lecture that will long be remembered as one of the best ever given in Napanee. Such was the unanimous opinion of an audience which filled the hall when Prof. de Champ of the University of Toronto was introduced to an audience which gave him its undivided attention for over an hour and a quarter, one that regretted the fact that the lecture had to come to an end and one that left the hall with a feeling that they had been privileged to hear a real patriot.

Prof. de Champ's subject was "The France of To-day". In his introduction, he modestly refrained from mentioning the fact that he had entered the trenches when the war broke out and had only left when rheumatism forced him to do so. He was at his home in France in July, 1914, when the great European conflagration burst forth. He told of the quiet home life in the beautiful valley with the Alps as a background, of the domestic happiness of the country as a whole, and of the feeling which was always present that the war would come—if not at that season then surely at the next. This feeling, which had been present so many years, had grown to be a part of the life of the people. But when war did come, when all the bells were violently rung—the pre-arranged signal which everyone understood—what a change came over that quiet scene. Every man, except the very aged, joined the colors and marched off to war, leaving only the women, boys and old men to do the work.

It was at this point in his lecture that the distinguished speaker gave what was to the majority of his hearers a most enlightening description of the normal conditions in rural France. He told of the life of the people, what they lived on, how they usually handled their crops, what these crops were, the functions of the various members of the household and, best of all, he told of the domestic happiness. It would be difficult to imagine a more vivid picture of real home life, and it is a picture that so changes the usual conception gained from reading the ordinary magazine article of to-day.

After the war cloud burst and the men had all gone away to fight, the country was very different. But the brave French women took up the burdens and have shown the world that they too are just as anxious as the men to do what they can for their country.

The entire lecture teemed with interesting facts, most of them new to the audience. The parts which seem-

LETTER FROM BELGIUM

Belgium, Dec. 4, 1915.

Mr. Walter Clark,
 Napanee, Ont.,
 Morven Rural Route.

Hello Walter!—Well you must excuse me for not writing, but you know we have not much time to write sometimes. Well I have been in action since Sept. 19. We left England on the 15th, and four days after we were in the firing line, about one hundred and twenty-five yards from the Germans. Of course you know we were all a little nervous after a forced march through France of about 40 miles. All along the road the French gave us beer and wine. Hardly a man was seen in any of the small towns we went through. The French seem to be very fine people. About half way on our march General Alderson, Commander of the Canadian troops gave us a stirring address, and told us we were to go in the firing line right away. We were the last Battalion of the 2nd Division to leave England and the first of the second contingent to go in action. So you see that is an honor to the Battalion. We were in the big drive the second time we were in the trenches, that took place at Loos. So you see we have one bar anyway. The shell firing was a little shocking at first, but we didn't mind the bullets a darn bit more than flies around our ears. But you know one gets used to life out here. The bursting of shells around one gets to be so common that one hardly notices it. I had a fine souvenir for you. It was a piece of the shell that killed the first man in our Battalion. But you see we are not allowed to send anything like that through the mail. I kept it until someone stole it out of my kit bag. But never mind I will not forget you. I have not got a scratch on me yet. Although, I have had some pretty close calls, but you know an inch is as good as a mile. Belgium is nothing more than a pile of ruins. Some of the finest churches in Belgium are totally ruined by German shell fire. The big town of Ypres is totally ruined, the firing line, running nearly through the centre of the town. Quite a few of our fellows have been wiped out. I have seen some of the finest built men, one would wish to look at cut down. One could see the determined look on their faces, which even death could not banish. They gave us a dose of gas a couple of weeks ago, but we were prepared for them. They made an attack on our trenches, but our machine guns and rapid fire caused them to retire.

They made a counter attack but were met with same dose of lead and shells. The gas came over about four thirty in the morning, and the German artillery opened fire, then ours started. The skies were all lit up with searchlights, which formed a very pretty sight in the early morning.

The ground has not frozen out here like in Canada and it rains all the time. The mud and hardships are really worse than the Germans. I have been in the hospital a while since I came out here, and the service is excellent. There is some talk of letting us go on leave. I hope it will

that they too are just as anxious as the men to do what they can for their country.

The entire lecture teemed with interesting facts, most of them new to the audience. The parts which seemed to please most were the delightful descriptions of the home life of the French and of their ardent patriotism. Love of home and love of country were emphasized again and again as being the only things worth while to make a united people, and no one could possibly listen to Prof. de Champ without being impressed with the fact that he is a true Frenchman.

Throughout the entire lecture the audience was most enthusiastic and many times there was a burst of applause which showed their appreciation and sympathy. Should Prof. de Champ again favor Napanee he will be assured of a warm welcome.

In closing the President announced that the next meeting of the Society would be held on Friday evening, February 25th, when Prof. O. D. Skelton of Queen's University, will deliver a lecture, the subject to be announced later. The meeting closed with "God Save The King."

ENGLAND BOMBED BY ZEPPELINS

London, Feb. 1, 1.45 a.m.—A raid by six or seven Zeppelins and airships took place last night over the eastern, northeastern and midland counties of England according to an announcement of the war office.

A number of bombs were dropped, but up to the present no considerable damage has been reported.

NOT TAKEN OFF GUARD.

A resumption of the Zeppelin raids on London and the east coast of England was expected by the British authorities and on Jan. 26th a special warning was sent out by the police which after referring to the increase in the offensive protection against hostile aircraft recently provided in the metropolitan district, advised the public on the occasion of air raids to take cover.

The latest previous raids on England by German aircraft occurred on Jan. 23rd and 24th, when hostile aeroplanes dropped bombs along the east coast of Kent, killing or wounding a few persons and an aeroplane attacked the station, barracks and docks at Dover.

Only recently the defence of London from air attacks had been placed in the hands of the war office, previously the admiralty had charge of this matter. Both these departments, however, have been co-operating harmoniously.

SEVERAL MONTHS' IMMUNITY.

Prior to January 3rd there was an interval of several months during which England was immune from air attacks. From June 15th until October 13th there were six Zeppelin raids on London and the east coast of England, in which 121 persons were reported killed and 313 injured.

After the Zeppelin raids on Paris, Saturday and Sunday nights, the view was expressed by the French authorities that these attacks doubtless were merely a prelude to a more extensive movement by German aircraft, and the fact that six or seven machines have taken part in the new raid on England would indicate a well considered plan by the Germans to increase the activity of their dirigibles and probably bring into play the new Fokker machines, which are reported to be very effective engines of war.

highest ideals. Thus having reviewed our characteristics, the rest of them is having deduced our U put them into practise.

The church is not only can the attention of our boys. Their minds must be filled with ideals and noble aspirations. Church must open up many of activity. The writer of derided the idea that a Junior and Mission Band could not along successfully together. Junior League is the natural of the Senior League. The intimate and loving relations exist between the members of the Junior League and the pastor has the best interest in future church in his mind interested in the Junior League.

A paper was prepared and read by Mrs. Hopp subject of the Junior League. It discussed certain phases of the League. The attractions of the world some place where the children trained spiritually. The part a great influence in promoting the welfare of the Junior League training means much in the development of character. After music a conference League work was conducted F. S. Stephenson, of Toronto of the points suggested are a

1. Touch life at its beginning
2. Secure a man to lead the "teen" period.
3. Interest the boys by giving something to do.
4. Have just as many as can be worked.
5. Encourage boys and work for themselves.
6. Teach them the Bible hymns, etc.

7. Encourage plenty of social course, good times, informal

8. Stimulate the missionary and cultivate their sympathy

The convention next divided into two conferences were held:—

1. Conducted by Mrs. F. S. Stephenson missionary work in the League

- (1) Cultivate prayer for League another.
- (2) Have a personal canvas
- (3) Give special mission grants.
- (4) Have a missionary library

b ro, was called to the platform as chairman.

The main feature of the afternoon session was "Our thin Red Line." The missionaries, supported by our Bay of Quinte Conference, were represented and a synopsis of the life and work of each were given.

Rev. S. S. Osterhout, Ph.D., who is supported by Belleville district, was represented by Rev. F. G. Joblin, of Bayside, who said he was delighted to speak as a representative of Belleville district, as it had the honour of being the first district to have a self-supporting missionary, who was Dr. Wrench. Dr. Osterhout visited our district last fall and inspired us with a desire to do more to help him in his work. He is especially qualified for his work as Superintendent of oriental missions at Vancouver. This is of great importance as the Japs, Chinese and Hindoos coming into the west with their immortal ideas, makes it necessary that the thin red line of Methodism should be stalwart and strong in order to keep us from falling a prey to the yellow peril.

His greatest work is through his night schools—two students are to enter the ministry this year, another has graduated from Yale, one great Jap minister has received his Ph.D., from John Hopkins University, so we can see some results from his work.

Rev. J. K. Smith, who is supported by Napanee district, was to have been represented by Rev. S. A. Kemp, of Enterprise, but in his absence his paper was read. A sketch of his early life at Brantford was given, after receiving the Divine call, he prepared himself for service and went to Alberta to minister to the Galicians with Dr. Lawford. From his paper we see the great need for teachers, who can love and help these people, who are clamouring for schools.

Rev. E. W. Morgan, B.A., supported by the Picton district, was taken up by Rev. Wm. Higgs, of Millbrook, in the absence of Rev. E. Harstone, Melville.

This missionary was born at Ome- me, and at 14 years of age was converted in a revival held by Crossley and Hunter. When a school teacher, he received the call for greater work, so fitted himself for work in China, but because of sickness returned to Canada and took up work among the Hindoos on Pacific coast, but now he is again at work in China.

Rev. C. H. Lawford, M.D., supported by Brighton and Campbellford district was next represented by Rev. W. H. Clark, of Marmora.

Dr. Lawford was the pioneer missionary to the Galicians, with Pagan as a centre, and has succeeded in doing very effective work, although physically handicapped.

Rev. Geo. W. Sparling, B.A., B.D., supported by Bowmanville was represented by Mr. Claude Ives, of Bowmanville. Dr. Sparling was a man of great intellectuality, and after graduation went for service in China, in 1907. After 4 years he was driven to Shang- hai, because of revolution, and finally returned to Canada. In 1914, he again returned to China. Mr. Ives hopes that before a decade some one from their own district may step out and go as a missionary to help Dr. Sparling in his good work.

Rev. W. A. Truscott, who is in charge of the Sunnyside mission, at Oshawa, was represented by Rev. H. B. Kenny, Cobourg, President of Bay of Quinte Conference. Mr. Truscott is a man with good mind and intensely spiritual. He entered into the mission work at Oshawa, because of a burning love for Jesus Christ. He is doing the work of a missionary among the labouring people of Whitby.

Geo. Rev. F. Denyes, supported by Whitby district, was then given by himself to the needs. The danger is of getting into a rut which leads to formalism and deadness. The quarterly boards should give the pastor more freedom. An outdoor ministry is needed, by this is meant the realm of sport, the requirements of the young life of the church. He paid a tribute to the work of Salvation Army in its work of developing talent. Talent as in bands orchestra etc. Lack of freedom often hinders the best interests of the Kingdom, the church must go out after the young people by every legitimate means. The Salvation Army has been largely the custodian of the poor, because of the burden of machinery of the church which has prevented action.

Two guiding principles must control the congregations in their work. Conservation of human life is the principle for which the church stands. The Church having conserved its life must follow the life into every department of life. The life of every community must be cleaned up. The duty of the church is not to create but to direct nature in its tendency. The church must be eyes, hands, even a heart to its community. The church must stand for highest quality of life, noble ideal, sanctity of the home, honor and integrity.

The second principle is Redemption. Redemption means bringing back again. The Christian church must stand for the principle of redemption and here is the great field of Evangelism.

The church must stand to elevate, purify and save the life of the community. The need is for the infusion of the spirit of Christ into every young

THE COST OF PRODUCING MILK.

The cost of producing milk obviously depends a great deal on the milking capacity of the cows used. Comparison between eight of the best and eight of the poorer cows in an Ontario dairy record centre shows that there was a difference in profit per cow of $24.56, the eight high yielding cows giving an average profit of $37.21 while the poorer cows returned a profit of only $12.65 per head. The milk in each case was valued at $1.15 per hundred pounds. The difference would no doubt have been very much reduced had the feeding been the same for all the animals. Those that yielded the higher profit were much better fed than the others.

Rev. E. W. Rowland of Greenbank.
He is engaged in Indian work at White Fish Lake, in Northern Alberta. He went to this work only last summer, so as yet we can not know of results of his efforts, but we feel that he is doing a very effective work.

Rev. E. Hibbard B.A., supported by Lindsay and Cannington, was taken up by Rev. A. H. Foster of Whitby.
Rev. Hibbard was from an English home, and was early converted. He came to Canada, and spent some time in our Canadian West. From here he went to China. During the voyage
his wife died and was buried in China,
but he went into the heart of China
to carry on his great work.

The last of "Our Thin Red Line" to be spoken of was represented by Rev.
W. E. Smith M.D., who was represented by Rev. R. A. Whattam, of Peterboro, and who is supported by Cobourg and Peterboro districts. His early life was one of the hardest of the missionaries, but he is doing effective work in China.

After these addresses a very beautiful duet was rendered by two members from Grace Church.

Rev. Wm. Higgs of Millbrook gave an address on the Bay of Quinte Summer School.

The novelty has worn off, the Summer School conditions have changed, and the school at Whitby while in-terdenominational is a competitor of the Bay of Quinte School. These have affected the School, making the holding of the school more difficult. The School was organized for two purposes (1) to study God's Word (2) to study Missions. Rev. Prof. McLaughlin has served the school many years and will be present this year. Various phases of mission problems have been presented. Various League problems are discussed, teacher training is taken up. The object of the school has been to develop leadership for the various departments of the church especially the Sunday School and Epworth League.

Does the Summer School pay? It has brought about a deepened spiritual life on the part of the delegates.
The school is a great centre for spiritual development and a means for accepting Jesus Christ. Many pledged themselves for more active Christian work especially the study of God's Word, the leading of others to Christ,
the choosing of some vacation that is specifically Christian. There are difficulties in connection with the school and these are chiefly financial. The executive have faced a deficit during the last few years and there is a need for a larger revenue. An appeal was made to the conference for some scheme to help the summer school.

After some discussion the session was closed by the benediction pronounced by Rev. H. B. Kenny, Pres.
of the conference.

EVENING SESSION, FEB. 2nd.

After the prayer and praise service
a beautiful duet was exquisitely rendered by two members of the Grace Church choir. Rev. R. G. Pewer of Peterboro gave a helpful address on the subject of the Church in the field of Social Service. The field of Social Service he described as the immediate contiguity where the individual lives. The needs are varied and these needs must be met, but before they are met, they must be known and the social worker must adopt himself to these known needs. Places are influenced by the dominant industry,
hence the church must adopt itself to its peculiar field, understand the life of the place. The preacher or leader must have sufficient initiative to adapt

and here is the greatest need of evangelism.

The church must stand to elevate,
purify and save the life of the community. The need is for the infusion of the spirit of Christ into every young man.

A splendid quartette rendered by members of Trinity Church choir was much appreciated. The second address of the evening was given by Capt. Williams a member of the Bay of Quinte conference on "Democracy on Trial." He opened his address by an appeal to men to think and men need to think "Victory."

In 1900 Sir John Fisher told the Lord of the admiralty that in that year the British Navy was obsolete.
The Navy had to be scrapped. In 1905 Germany avowed her intention to cripple Britain's fleet. England knew the war was coming. In 1911 England offered to declare a holiday
in naval construction. When England found out Germany intended war, England laid down a greater fleet and that fleet dominates the situation. The 15-inch gun fires a shot 1905 lbs. in weight. There is no defeat in naval battles, either victory or annihilation. Victory is necessary and the only thing we can have.

What will the war end?
Progress will not end it, nor will reason, nor will arbitration. Men who will step out for God, King and Country will end it.

He drew a distinction between democracy and autocracy showing the spirit of Prussian military power.
Five things necessary in a democracy.
Truth, Purity, Courtesy, Valor, Patriotism.

He made a closing appeal for every one to do his or her part, in service and in sacrifice.

Fortunate.

"It is a good thing too."
"What?"
"That one half of the world doesn't know how the other half lives."
"Just why, please?"
"Because in that case so much time would be consumed in gossip over the matter that industry would be badly interfered with."

His Hobby.

"Ever shave with a safety razor?"
"No."
"Then you won't like my uncle."
"Why not?"
"Won't have anything in common to talk about."

Those that yielded the higher profit
were much better fed than the others.
The average cost of their feed for the milking period being $43.96 per head,
while the food received by the less profitable animals was valued at $32.33

show that the exports of butter in-

NOTES ON COW TESTING.

To assist dairy farmers who desire to test their herds for milk production the Dairy and Cold Storage Commissioner at Ottawa has issued for public distribution a pamphlet entitled "Cow Testing Notes" and designed Circular No. 16 D. & S.
Series. The pamphlet shows the necessary equipment as spring scales,
box of sample bottles, dipper, etc., and tells the cost of each and where the outfit may be procured as well as the purpose and method of use of each.

The Department of Agriculture
through the Dairy and Cold Storage Branch helps farmers to test their cows. In July 1915 the branch received records of 22,669 cows. Evidences of the value of cow testing
are given:

"Cow testing not only produces better cows, but more interested and better dairymen.

"With each cow's record before him,
the dairymen is able to feed more intelligently. Meal in proportion to milk" is a good motto.

"The figures of a creamery statement at Ward's Mills, Que., show that
from a herd of twelve cows in 1912,
the cash received by the owner was $297.85. In 1914, from twelve cows he received $804.48. He discovered the poor cows and got rid of them.

"At Mallorytown, Ont., a herd of twelve cows has increased from 3,726
pounds of milk per cow in 1909
to 7,388 pounds per cow in 1914;
this is an increase of 3,662 pounds of milk per cow, or 98 per cent.

"In Hastings county, Ontario, a farmer commenced cow testing in 1912
and found his herd of ten cows averaged 5,780 pounds of milk and 187 pounds of fat. In 1914 his ten cows averaged 7,436 pounds of milk and 254 pounds of fat, an increase of 1,656
pounds of milk and 67 pounds of fat
in two years.

A FEW HOT SHOTS FOR THE GOVERNMENT

Dr. Pugsley may plant, Arthur Meighen may water by his denials, but it is Frank Carvell, M.P., who giveth to increase. In other words the Member for Carlton, N.B., is a first class fighting man and believes in spilling all the beans instead of one bean at a time.

The moral effect of his five hours' speech last week in which he delivered a concentrated attack on the Old Shell Committee, the hay contracts made by the Agriculture Department in New Brunswick, and the perfunctory operations of the Davidson Commission lingers yet. It lingered to such an extent that the day after the speech a Conservative caucus was held at which nothing else was talked about. It lingers now. Not since the war started have the Government supporters had to take such a grueling.

Some took it with a wry face, as for example Captain John Hampden Burnham, who uncoiled his lazy khaki length in the midst of Mr. Carvell's most glowing periods, and asked, "Why all these words?" Ham Burnham is a soldier now and when he joined the army he understood that all the damage was to take place over in Europe. He did not calculate that an old artillery colonel like Frank Carvell would be operating a curtain of fire against his party friends. Hence Ham's outburst.

Bennett of Simcoe, on the other hand, ventured the suggestion that the Liberals ought to take up a collection and present Frank Carvell with a gold watch for teaching them how to put up a good battle. Which seems to show that there is a section of the Conservative party that would like to see more of it, though how that can be, after the thorough way in which Carvell covered the ground is hard to make out. At all events everybody agreed that Frank Carvell was a big gun and that a few spirited rounds from him were highly destructive. Even if he doesn't get the enquiry into the Old Shell Committee which he demands he will have succeeded in putting the fear of the Lord into the profiteers. This in itself is no mean feat.

Yes, fear is the word because anyone who knows Frank Carvell knows that there is more behind. No man uses less flub-dub and more facts than the member for Carlton, N.B. His reputation, as the Opposition's gun is as useful to him as a bureau of detectives. He is the greatest recipient of underground information in Canada. The horrible details flock to him from all over the country and as Frank Carvell is a lawyer and knows what evidence means his informants don't try to put him off with back-yard gossip. The hot stuff comes to him properly fortified with affidavits and original documents. It's a safe bet that when Frank Carvell makes a five hour speech he has material for a five month's enquiry, at the back of it, and that his real brief is a tight fit for the office vault.

What Frank Carvell did Tuesday week was merely to state the indictment. Being a good player he does not throw his hand on the table. His speech, long though it was, held not a dull minute. It was full of salient points. In fact it was all salient points, and every point impaled a humbug. He left the salient points sticking in the Government's hide and naturally there was some squirming.

In the excitement of Carvell's attack on the Shell Committee people may overlook his opening remarks in which as a business man he took a shrewd glance at the finances of the country. A billion dollar national debt, fifty millions annual interest, thirty millions our annual pension bill. No doubt Finance Minister White will go further into this phase of the war. Meanwhile Mr. Carvell is far from certain that the influx of immigration after the war will put enough land under tillage and create enough taxable assets to make up the deficits. This sinister foreword was a fitting introduction to his tale of brigandage in the Shell Committee.

It is worth noting that Mr. Carvell had no complaint to make against the old Shell Committee for awarding contracts at reasonable prices to firms who were in a position to commence the manufacture of shells at once. His charges were directed against the mushroom companies operated by Conservative politicians to whom the Shell Committee proceeded to pay out millions of dollars. Of such companies he named a baker's dozen, capital mostly a shoe string, which received contracts aggregating many millions of dollars. He promised if necessary to name a hundred more and all up to sample. Many of these companies, like the York and Cornwall Cotton Company which turned its contract over on a ten per cent. commission to the Fleming Grundy Company, St. John, N. B., had no more notion of making shells than you and I have of claiming our mansions in the skies at the present moment. They simply got the contracts and hawked them about.

"Middleman, middleman, middleman, everywhere!" exclaimed Mr. Carvell with rising emphasis.

What made it worse was that while the Shell Committee were telling bonafide manufacturers that all the orders were let they were awarding

GERMAN FLAG IS TORN BY INFURIATED SWISS

GENEVA, via Paris, Jan. 29.—A battalion of the 123rd Landwehr has been sent to Lausanne at the request of the state council of the canton of Vaud. Camille De Coppel, president of the Swiss Federation, has been delegated by the federal council to proceed to Lausanne to discuss the situation which has arisen in that city as a result of the hostile demonstration during which the German flag raised by the German consul on the occasion of Emperor William's birthday on Jan. 27 was torn down by a crowd. He is to confer in this regard with the same council of Vaud.

The City of Lausanne is now calm. The Landwehr soldiers on arrival were greeted with cheers for the Swiss army and cries of "Down with spies." The Lausanne city council has issued an appeal to the inhabitants to live up to their traditions of orderly and decorous conduct.

PRO-ALLY SENTIMENT RUNNING HIGH IN U.S.

OTTAWA, Jan. 30.—"There is an element of pro-ally sentiment in the United States which has grown with amazing impetus," said Hon. James M. Beck, of New York and Philadelphia, ex-assistant attorney general of the United States, in addressing the Ottawa Canadian Club Saturday. "It is that element which believes that the Stars and Strips should be beside the Union Jack and the Tricolor of France."

Mr. Beck is the author of that notable indictment of Germany, "The Evidence in the Case," and the largest crowd of notables which has ever attended a meeting of the club was present, including the Duke of Connaught, Sir Robert L. Borden, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, members of the cabinet and house of commons. He spoke on the attitude of the United States in this war.

"The first opportunity of the American people to express in concrete form its moral judgment on this supreme struggle of civilization will occur in November next," Mr. Beck stated. "Until then I ask you to suspend judgment."

TWENTY BATTALIONS GOING OVERSEAS SOON

OTTAWA, Jan. 30.—General Sir Sam Hughes stated to-night that twenty battalions would be sent over to England within the next two or three months. They would be chosen in order of merit.

Regina has offered to raise 2500 more and Swift Current has offered a new battalion. King Edward of Peace River Crossing has offered to raise a corps in that north country.

What made it worse was that while the Shell Committee were telling bonafide manufacturers that all the orders were let they were awarding enormous contracts to these mushroom combinations hastily formed to enjoy the spray from the fountain of blessing. He cited the correspondence of Gen. Sir Alexander Bertram with the Dunbar Engine and Foundry Company, of Woodstock, N. B., as a case in point. As a matter of fact the Shell Committee was so tender of party friends that the Albion Machine Company, of New Glasgow, N. S., which had twice tried to slip a lot of bad shells past the inspector, was still allowed to go on manufacturing.

Mr. Carvell touched, not as heavily as he might have done if put to it, the case of Hepburn Pros. who operate a planning mill at Picton, Ont. Hepburn Pros. got a contract for forging and machining seven hundred thousand dollars worth of shells, but as a planning mill is no place to make shells they peddled it out to a manufacturer in Montreal. Dr. Pugsley had previously glanced at this case, mentioning fifteen thousand dollars as the sum, but this, as you see, was a considerable understatement. "Barney" Hepburn, the senior member of the firm, is, M.P. for Prince Edward County, and $15,000.00 would be small potatoes for one as full of the joy of living as he is. The joy of living and incidentally the cost of it has shot up terribly in the last ten years and "Barney" who is as high a flyer as he is true a patriot couldn't afford to ease the Empire's danger less than $700,000.00 worth. The weight of legal opinion is that "Barney" did nothing to jeopardize his position as a member of the Canadian Parliament by accepting a shell order from the British Government, and that the B.N.A. Act took no hurt from him although one of nicer conscience might not have done it. It is, as a religious person put it, a question between the man and his Maker—that is to say between the M. P., at Picton and his Shell Maker at Montreal.

The real question is how did "Barney" get the contract? It must have been his smile. "Barney" has smiles like a morning in May, and Major General Sam does like to have blithe hearts about him. We have the Major General's word for it that "he never interfered with the Shell Committee in giving contracts or fixing is injured, Col. Gordon Stewart of Ottawa, who lost an eye while at the front, is coming back to Canada.

The government, after giving the Canadian troops an extra supply of machine guns will pool the rest with the imperial authorities, according to a statement of General Hughes.

Sir Sam Hughes explained that the war office has asked that 20,000 more Canadian troops be sent to England. The offer of this number was made some months ago, and is only now accepted because the war office could not make provision for housing additional troops at that time. Arrangements are now under way to establish the 20,000 additional Canadians in camps here.

prices." But we also have this further declaration: "I am the father of the Shell Committee. I stand back of it, first last and all the time." As a father wasn't it his duty to know how the Shell Committee was handling a glad young thing like "Barney?" And there Frank Carvell left it. Conservative members after wonder at the fierceness of the Carvell attack. His friends who happen to know what he is holding back wonder oftener at his moderation.

After dipping into the sad plight of the Transcona shops which started out gloriously with an offer to D. A. Thomas to become a government munition factory and ended ignominiously as a mushroom outfit like the rest, Mr. Carvell took up the pilgrimage of the Davidson Commission whose chief object seemed to be to turn down the evidence that poured into it from all quarters.

The affaire Cox in which the President of the Canada Life tried to give fifty high bred horses to the government, but could not get them past Sir Adam Beck, will take a lot of explaining. When these horses were afterwards led up anonymously at Brampton market they passed with honours and brought high prices. It seems that Sir Adam looks a gift horse in the mouth—particularly when it is a Grit mount. The suggestion is made that Sir Adam didn't want Mr. Cox's name to compete with his in the newspapers.

From horses to hay is but a step and there Mr. Carvell ended his remarks. It seems that some of Mr. Hazen's friends operated a hay squeeze in New Brunswick with the result that New Brunswick farmers got $13.00 a ton for hay in the barn, while Quebec farmers got $17.00 a ton. Presumably the four dollars spread indicates the high value the government sets on Nationalist support. To give him credit the Minister of Agriculture sought to intervene but who is little Martin Burrell to oppose an elemental force like John Douglas Hazen? He might as well try to sweep back the Atlantic ocean.

he said.

WONDERFUL WAR MACHINE.

"I do not know whether Germany meant to fight Great Britain in 1916 or 1917 or later, but I certainly know she did not expect to fight her in 1914," he said. "Two weeks before Britain entered the war Sir Edward Grey was somewhat of a popular idol in Germany, which shows how little the German people expected war with Britain."

On the outbreak of war he said he saw none of the enthusiastic celebrations of which we had read. The people took the news gravely, soberly, and even with depressed spirits. They had entire faith in their army and in their government to bring the war to a victorious close. The German war machine, he said was wonderful. Nobody had ever seen the grey field uniforms of the Germans, yet within eight days after the declaration every German soldier was equipped with one. Nobody knows even where they came from. Once, near Strassburg, he counted during 24 hours 60 military trains pass and each bore 1000 soldiers, artillery and field equipment. Mobilization was carried out with wonderful smoothness.

GERMAN STUPIDITY.

The cleverness of the German Government in moulding public opinion and holding the people unanimous for war is only excelled by their stupidity in their disregard for neutral opinion, the professor said. The docility of the German people, he said, cannot be really understood by Britons and Americans. Anyone who reads French newspapers can know by the erasures of the censor that they are not getting all that the newspapers considered news, whereas, while in Germany, he said he never saw a white space in a paper denoting that the censor had prohibited the use of a certain article. The difference, he explained, is that the French Government says what the press may not use, whereas the German Government tells the press only what they may use. When the Lusitania was sunk the German people read that "the Lusitania, an auxiliary cruiser with 15 guns on her deck," had been torpedoed.

NATION OF SORROW.

In Germany at the present time the professor said the only loungers on the streets were maimed or mutilated men and in the street cars and trains fully half the women were in mourning. "You see this thing over there until it depresses you beyond words: you see a nation in suffering."

He said that up to the 29th of September the German people had not been told about the battle of the Marne. Not until he left Germany and got into Geneva did he read about the repulse of the German army on that memorable occasion.

Speaking of conditions in France he said that during the German advance on Paris and before the battle of the Marne, the French people thought the game was up. Now he said the Frenchman's simple logic was that if they could defeat them with inferior equipment then, they can defeat them now with superior equipment. "You do not realize how much faith and dependence they place on you," he said. "The French people hold an affection for the English now as great as affection between two different races can possibly be."

OVERCOME WITH REMORSE.

He had a word to say about air raids and reprisals. It was well known who started the air raids, but was it worth while for the allies to throw their moral superiority away by reprisals? Very, very seldom, he said, does an aeroplane hit what it is aiming at. In

QUEER PERSIAN VEHICLES.

Riding in Them I Like Being in a Rolling Ship at Sea.

The two kinds of vehicles in common use in Persia differ only in appearance, the palaki being open, the kejeval covered with a light roof, generally made waterproof and with curtains before the entrance to keep out the sun, rain, wind and snow. The kejeval is the more elaborate conveyance, heavier and more expensive to hire, and therefore is used chiefly by the richer classes.

But the most comfortable means of travel and one which is used only by the wealthiest and most luxurious classes is the takhtiravan. This is a sort of palakin consisting of a box about seven feet long and five feet high, fitted with doors and windows. Inside are a soft mattress and some comfortable cushions. The whole is built on the sedan chair principle, but with mules instead of men as bearers. The poles rest on the pack saddles on the backs of the mules, which walk tandem. They can, of course, only be used in the long plains and are useless when the route goes over hilly country. The motion reminds one of a rolling ship, and some people even get giddy and seasick at first in them.

Such personages as princes, governors and high officials always travel with many followers and bangers on. It is a most picturesque sight to meet such a caravan, from which the pipe bearer is never missing. In front of his saddle are fastened large round cases covered with bright red cloth, containing the silver water bottles and the silver tops of the kalkan (water pipe). Under the horse on one side is a perforated metal fire box hanging on a chain and containing the burning charcoal, while on the other side swings a heavy leather bottle full of water in readiness to prepare the pipe on the road. A clever bearer prepares the apparatus as he rides along, gallops up to his master and hands him his ready prepared smoking pipe to enjoy a few puffs.

The luncheon or tea horse is another necessity for the journey. Anywhere on the high road it can be unloaded, and within a few minutes the felt carpet, carried on the saddle behind the rider, is spread on the ground, the samovar, cups, sugar and lemons arranged on a tray on one corner, and, kneeling behind these, the servant hands out the tea to the travelers. When ready to remount they leave him behind, and he packs up and follows at a smart canter, soon rejoining the caravan.—Lieutenant Colonel A. Heinicke in Travel.

Lawyers and Liars.

The eminent cross examiners of New York city have their favorite methods of knowing when a witness is telling the truth or lying. One lawyer says he can tell when a witness is lying by the movement of the lips. Another declares the hands form the best barometer, and another declares the twitching of the muscles of the cheeks is a sure sign that the witness has been trapped in a lie. Still another disciple of Blackstone says that facial expression always helps him, as well as watching the feet, which are usually shifted uneasily when the lie is

The girl who doesn't know she is pretty isn't, and the man who doesn't know he is a fool is.

There are persons so thick skinned that no arrow aimed at their self conceit ever pierces their armor.

The individual who poses as the head of the family isn't always the one who keeps the works from going to smash.

The burden bearer of the family isn't always the profit sharer either.

There are people who would be more useful to the world if they were not in it.

Why is it that an ordinary level headed man can't resist making silly speeches when a girl in the legitimate discharge of her duties comes in his way?

The things that we are not doing are sometimes the things that give us the most annoyance.

Sometimes we realize that we are great, but what's the use when nobody else ever finds it out?

Though his coat is ragged
And his hair awry,
He may have a wealthy aunt
Just about to die.

Cannot judge a fellow
By his style of dress
Or on his appearance
Base a certain guess.
If when he is pleasant
You are rude and cross
Maybe he can later
Queer you with the boss.

Doesn't cost you money,
Effort isn't great,
And a little kindness
Scattered while you wait
May affect your prospects
And your fortunes boost
When the little chickens
Hurry home to roost.

And suppose it didn't Pay in cents and dimes
And your fortunes double
Many, many times,
For the small investment
Of a pleasant smile
It will bring your friendships
Clearly worth the while.

started the air raids, but was it worth while for the allies to throw their moral superiority away by reprisals? Very, very seldom, he said, does an aeroplane hit what it is aiming at. In conclusion he told a touching story concerning the methods of reprisals adopted. A wounded German crawled over to a wounded Frenchman on the field of battle and gave him a drink from his water bottle. After a while the German saw the Frenchman reaching into his hip pocket and believing he was drawing a revolver to kill him, as he had been told wounded Frenchmen do, he took quick aim and shot him first. When he put his hand into the Frenchman's pocket to get the revolver he expected to find there, he drew out a photograph of the dead soldier's wife and family which he had been going to show him. The professor said that this German lay for weeks in the hospital unable to get well, altho his wound was a minor one, suffering agony in the realization of the unjustifiable murder he had committed.

ONTARIO SHOULD DO LIKEWISE

Manitoba women have been given the vote by the Legislature of the province,—the first one in the Dominion to adopt this progressive measure. The historical importance of the event affords a timely opportunity to examine, not as a matter of partisanship, but of actual record, whether Liberal or Conservative, provincial governments are the more progressive.

From 1905 to 1915 there was Conservative Government in Manitoba. Prohibition, women's suffrage, direct legislation and other advanced measures were blocked.

Last year Manitoba went Liberal. Already it has women's suffrage; direct legislation will be passed this session and a referendum on prohibition will be taken on March 15th. More reforms have come under Liberal Government in a few months than came under Roblin in ten years.

Both Saskatchewan and Alberta also have Liberal Governments and have had since 1905. It is common knowledge that up to the time Manitoba joined the same procession these two provinces had the most advanced legislation in the country. Alberta has direct legislation and prohibition. Saskatchewan has wiped out the bars and in both provinces women's suffrage is on the eve of adoption.

From a survey of such facts it is evident that Ontario, too, if it wants to be listed among the progressive communities, must do as the three prairie provinces have already done—elect a Liberal Government.

been trapped in a lie. Still another disciple of Blackstone says that facial expression always helps him, as well as watching the feet, which are usually shifted uneasily when the lie is apparent. Then another declares that by keeping constant vigilance on the eyes of the witness he knows when he has his man "going." If taken as complete formula it would mean that a perjurer to escape detection would have to school his face to be impassive, keep his hands in his pockets, hook his feet in the rounds of the witness chair and shut his eyes.

Still They Wonder Why.

The two women were discussing that never failing theme—the incompetency of domestic servants. And the bit of the conversation we overheard gave us a line on a possible reason for many a disappointment in that line.

"Well, I am looking for a new cook," said one of the women, "and I am at my wits' end. They come to you as experts, well recommended and all that, and they turn out to be lazy and incompetent. I declare I can't under stand it!"

"What became of the cook you had last week?" asked the other.

"My dear, she was positively the limit. She couldn't cook, she broke dishes, she wasted food, she wasn't neat, and she was impudent. I have reason to believe that she drank. Oh, I had to get rid of her. Honestly, she was so bad in every way that I could hardly think of a thing to say when I wrote a recommendation for her."

Two Words.

There are few words more often seen in the newspapers or magazines of the day than "pacifist" and "pacifism." Yet no dictionary, even the most voluminous, that was published previous to the outbreak of the great war, contains either word. We may be sure that no dictionary henceforth can ignore them, for the idea they express has entered into the mind of the race to stay.

Some people think that unfavorable notice is better than none.

And brings the fodder round.
If it is not the order

Or mention the annoyance
Lest she should call us down.

She throws in little chitchat
Between the bill of fare
About the other boarders
Not at the moment there.
When she is in a hurry
The dishes fairly bang,
And while she slings the platters
She slings the latest slang.

With fingers light and nimble
She shoots the biscuits through,
And not a man she misses,
Because her aim is true.
Then for the pie or pudding
She makes a hurried trip
And stands around quite careless Lest she should miss a tip.

tails were explained to him. Harold accompanied his mother to the bank, and, when ready, the book was handed to him. He looked at it a moment and then, throwing the book across the room, exclaimed:

"Such a small book for $5! Why, I can get a bigger one than that for 5 cents!"

Stubborn.

A little girl was heard talking to her rabbit.

"Five times five," she said, "six times six, seven times seven." Between times she shook the rabbit violently.

"Dorothy," said her mother, "what are you doing to your rabbit?"

"Well, papa says," replied the child, "that rabbits multiply rapidly, and Bunny won't do it."

"Yes, and another thing."

"What?"

"He is a wise fellow who has all he spends."

His Motive.

"I understand that you never taste liquor."

"No; I am thankful to say that I have always been abstemious."

"Do you ever use tobacco?"

"Never in any form."

"You have always been strictly moral in every way, I suppose."

"Absolutely."

"Say, tell me one thing. Have you been good because you found it satisfying to be so or because you hoped to be rewarded for your goodness?"

"In the first place I was good because I wanted to marry my employer's daughter, and after I got her I had to be good to hold my job."

Couldn't Forget It.

"Saturday night some miscreant lugged off a whole cord of my wood, and somehow I can't forget about it," declared Silas.

"Have you tried to forget it?" inquired his friend.

"Yes. Sunday morning I went to church, hoping I could get it off my mind, and before I had been there five minutes the choir started in singing 'The Lost Chord,' so I got out."

PENROD

by Booth
TARKINGTON

Invalids murmured pitifully as Penrod came within hearing, and people trying to think cursed the day that they were born when he went shrilling by. His hands in his pockets, his shining face uplifted to the sky of June, he passed down the street, singing his way into the heart's deepest hatred of all who heard him.

"One evening I was sturrow-ling Midst the city of the Dead,
I viewed where all a-round me
Their peace-full graves was spread.
But that which touched me most lay"—

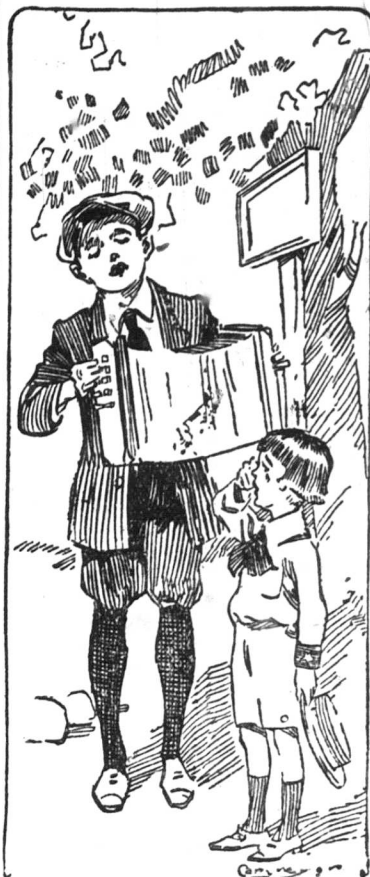

He had reached his journey's end, a junk dealer's shop, wherein lay the long desired treasure of his soul—an accordion which might have possessed a high quality of interest for an antiquarian, being unquestionably a ruin, beautiful in decay and quite beyond the sacrilegious reach of the restorer. But it was still able to disgorge sounds, which could be heard for a remarkable distance in all directions, and it had one rich caldlike tone that had gone to Penrod's heart. He obtained the instrument for 22 cents, a price long since agreed upon with the junk dealer, who falsely claimed a loss of profit. Shylock that he was! He had found the wreck in an alley.

With this purchase suspended from his shoulder by a faded green cord, Penrod set out in a somewhat homeward direction, but not by the route he had just traveled, though his motive for the change was not humanitarian. It was his desire to display himself thus troubadouring to the gaze of Marjorie Jones. Heralding his advance by continuous experiments in the music of the future, he pranced upon his blithesome way, the faithful Duke at his heels. (It was easier for Duke than it would have been for a younger dog, because with advancing age he had begun to grow a little deaf.)

Turning the corner nearest to the glamored mansion of the Joneses, the boy jongleur came suddenly face to face with Marjorie and, in the delicious surprise of the encounter, ceased to play, his hands, in agitation, falling from the instrument.

Bareheaded, the sunshine glorious upon her amber curls, Marjorie was strolling hand in hand with her baby brother Mitchell four years old. She

This was what he had come for. He threw back his head, lifted his eyes dreamily, as he had seen real musicians lift theirs, and distended the accordion preparing to produce the wonderful caldlike noise which was the instrument's great charm. But the distention evoked a long wail which was at once drowned in another one.

"Ow! Owowaoh! Wowohah! Waow-wow!" shrieked Mitchy-Mitch and the accordion together.

Mitchy-Mitch, to emphasize his disapproval of the accordion, opening his

The Inner Boy.

PENROD went home in splendor, pretending that he and Duke were a long procession, and he made enough noise to render the auricular part of the illusion perfect. His own family was already at the lunch table when he arrived, and the parade halted only at the door of the dining room.

"Oh, something!" shouted Mr. Schofield, clapping his bilious brow with both hands. "Stop that noise! Isn't it awful enough for you to sing? Sit down! Not with that thing on! Take that green rope off your shoulder! Now take that thing out of the dining room and throw it in the ashean! Where did you get it?"

"Where did I get what, papa?" asked Penrod meekly, depositing the accordion in the hall just outside the dining room door.

"That da—that third hand concertina."

"It's a 'cordion," said Penrod, taking his place at the table and noticing that both Margaret and Robert Williams (who happened to be a guest) were growing red.

"I don't care what you call it," said Mr. Schofield irritably. "I want to know where you got it."

Penrod's eyes met Margaret's. Hers had a strained expression. She very slightly shook her head. Penrod sent Mr. Williams a grateful look and might have been startled if he could have seen himself in a mirror at that moment, for he regarded Mitchy-Mitch with concealed but vigorous aversion, and the resemblance would have horrified him.

"A man gave it to me," he answered gently and was rewarded by the visibly regained ease of his patron's manner, while Margaret leaned back in her chair and looked at her brother with real devotion.

"I should think he'd have been glad to," said Mr. Schofield. "Who was he?"

"Sir?" In spite of the candy which he had consumed in company with Marjorie and Mitchy-Mitch Penrod had begun to eat lobster croquettes earnestly.

"Who was he?"

"Who do you mean, papa?"

"The man that gave you that ghastly thing!"

"Yes, sir; a man gave it to me."

"I say, Who was he?" shouted Mr. Schofield.

"Well, I was just walking alone, and the man came up to me. It was right down in front of Colgates', where most of the paint's rubbed off the fence"—

"Penrod!" The father used his most dangerous tone.

"Sir?"

"Who was the man that gave you the concertina?"

"I don't know. I was walking along and—"

"You never saw him before?"

"No, sir. I was just walk"—

"That will do," said Mr. Schofield, rising. "I suppose every family has its secret enemies and this was one of ours. I must ask to be excused."

Suddenly Penrod decided that it was time to go home.

o'clock that evening. "I shall al-hadn't been for them I don't believe he'd have lived till you got here—I do not!"

"Margaret," called Mr. Schofield from the open door of a bedroom. "Margaret,
where did you put that aromatic ammonia? Where's Margaret?"

But he had to find the aromatic spirits of ammonia himself, for Margaret was not in the house. She stood in the shadow beneath a maple tree near the street corner, a guitar case in her hand,
and she scanned with anxiety a briskly approaching figure. The arc light, swinging above, revealed this figure as that of him she awaited. He was passing toward the gate without seeing her,
when she arrested him with a fateful whisper.

"Bob!"

Mr. Robert Williams swung about hastily. "Why, Margaret!"

"Here, take your guitar," she whispered hurriedly. "I was afraid if father happened to find it he'd break it all to pieces!"

"What for?" asked the startled Robert.

"Because I'm sure he knows it's yours."

"But what?"

"Oh, Bob," she moaned, "I was waiting here to tell you. I was so afraid you'd try to come in!"

"Try!" exclaimed the unfortunate young man, quite dumfounded. "Try to come!"

"Yes, before I warned you. I've been waiting here to tell you, Bob, you mustn't come near the house. If I were you I'd stay away from even this neighborhood—far away! For awhile
I don't think it would be actually safe

"Margaret, will you please?"

"It's all on account of that dollar
you gave Penrod this morning," she wailed. "First he bought that horri-

"But Penrod didn't tell that I!"

In the darkness Mr. Williams' facial expression could not be seen, but his voice sounded hopeful.

"Is he— is he still in a great deal of

"They say the crisis is past," said
Margaret, "but the doctor's still up

"Of course I didn't know what he'd

She did not reply.

He began plaintively, "Margaret, you rather primly.

"You mean they're upset about me?"

"We are all very much upset," re-

vowed herself to perform.

And alone! No Mitchy-Mitch was to Penrod increased the feebleness of his steps, now and then leaning upon the fence as if for support.

"How do you do, Marjorie?" he said
in his best sickroom voice as she came near.

To his pained amazement she proceeded on her way, her nose at a celebrated elevation—an icy nose.

She cut him dead.

He threw his invalid's airs to the winds and hastened after her.

"Marjorie," he pleaded, "what's the

up to be a good man, and now he couldn't! I never heard anything so heartrending. He was so weak he could hardly whisper, but he kept try-

was all your fault."

"Hebent," she said firmly and, also,
with a rhetorical complexity which breeds a suspicion of rehearsal; "Robert, for the present I can only look at it in one way—when you gave that money to Penrod you put into the hands of an unthinking little child a weapon which might be, and, indeed, was, the means of his undoing. Boys are not respon"—

"But you saw me give him the dollar, and you didn't!"

"Robert!" she checked him with increasing severity. "I am only a woman and not accustomed to thinking everything out on the spur of the moment. But I cannot change my mind
—not now, at least."

"And you think I'd better not come in tonight?"

"Tonight!" she gasped. "Not for weeks! Papa would!"

"But Margaret," he urged plaintively,
"how can you blame me for?"

"I have not used the word 'blame,'"
she interrupted. "But I must insist that for your carelessness to—to wreak
such havoc—cannot fail to—to lessen
my confidence in your powers of judgment. I cannot change my convictions in this matter—not tonight—and I cannot remain here another instant. The poor child may need me. Robert, good night."

With chill dignity she withdrew, entered the house and returned to the sick room, leaving the young man in outer darkness to brood upon his crime—and upon Penrod.

That sincere invalid became convalescent upon the third day, and a week
elapsed, then, before he found an opportunity to leave the house unaccompanied—save by Duke. But at last he set forth and approached the Jones neighborhood in high spirits, pleasantly conscious of his pallor, hollow cheeks and other perquisites of illness
provocative of interest.

One thought troubled him a little because it gave him a sense of inferiority to a rival. He believed, against his will, that Maurice Levy could have successfully eaten chocolate creams, licorice sticks, lemon drops, jaw breakers, peanuts, waffles, lobster croquettes,
sardines, cinnamon drops, watermelon,
pickles, popcorn, ice cream and sausage
with raspberry lemonade and cider.
Penrod had admitted to himself that Maurice could do it and, afterward at-

day you said to come back next morning and you'd be on the corner, I was sick. Honest, I was awful sick, Marjorie! I had to have the doctor!"

"Doctor!" She whirled upon him, her lovely eyes blazing. "I guess we've had to have the doctor enough at our house, thanks to you, Mister Penrod Schofield. Papa says you haven't got near sense enough to come in out of the rain after what you did to poor little Mitchy-Mitch!"

"What?"

"Yes, and he's sick in bed yet!" Marjorie went on with unabated fury.
"And papa says if he ever catches you in this part of town!"

"What'd I do to Mitchy-Mitch?"
gasped Penrod.

ASPARAGUS CULTURE.

The Soil Best Suited to This Plant and Its Preparation.

Rich, sandy loam soil heavily fertilized with barnyard manure is best for asparagus. The limit of tolerance for alkali is indicated by a barely surviving plant found at Tempe in soil containing .50 per cent. sodium chloride, .22 per cent. sodium carbonate, the total soluble solids amounting to 1.50 per cent.

In preparing a field for asparagus the ground should be made level for short rows or with a very slight fall (about two inches in a hundred feet) for longer rows in order to secure thorough percolation of the water supply to the extensive root systems of the plant. In preparing the rows a good method is to open them out with furrows, two each to right and left, then to place a layer of well-rotted barnyard manure in the bottom of each furrow and cover it with two or three inches of soil. Rows thus prepared should be four or five seedlings. Although asparagus roots are hardy under shipment, home grown seedling roots are usually fresher and better for transplanting purposes than those imported from a distance. Also they are not infested with rust, which may be brought in with imported roots.

Although asparagus endures drouth its profitable culture requires frequent irrigation, ordinarily not less than twice monthly during the growing season.

POULTRY FARMING.

The Worst Mistake is Trying to Get Results Without Experience.

The writer heard a well-known agricultural authority remark that the "back to the land movement" occurred in thirty-five-year cycles, and that we were now due to see many city dwellers moving back to the farms. Should this be the case, this advice from The Grain Growers' Guide to people contemplating poultry farming proves very timely:

"While it would be in vain to at-bottom of each furrow and cover it with two or three inches of soil. Rows thus prepared should be four or five feet apart in small fields, but can be six or eight feet apart in larger and less intensively cultivated tracts.

Either seed or roots may be planted in the rows prepared as described, the surface of which should be somewhat below the general level of the field, since it is desirable to have the crowns of the plants at least six inches below the surface in order that the rows may be cultivated in winter without interfering with the crop. Seeds should be planted in hills about eighteen inches apart, well distributed to facilitate thinning the young plants to one in a hill later. Roots should be placed at intervals of about fifteen inches and covered about two inches deep with soil. Thus placed they may be irrigated at first on top of the depressed row, the soil being drawn gradually to the plants as they develop until finally they stand in low ridges irrigated from furrows on either side. Seed may be planted in nursery rows about two feet apart and allowed to grow one year. In planting they should be covered about an inch, and the plants should not be closely crowded in the row. The young roots may then be dug and transplanted as described. One or two year old roots give quicker results, but are more costly than seed, which, however, requires at least a year's development before transplanting may be done. Roots also will grow in soil too alkaline for this advice from the Grain Growers' Guide to people contemplating poultry farming proves very timely:

"While it would be in vain to attempt to enumerate all the many causes of failure in poultry-keeping, it is well to emphasize from time to time common mistakes, several of which generally mean, if not actual failure, at any rate considerably less profit than might reasonably be expected. That poultry-keeping may be conducted with profit requires no verification here. Everyone, no matter what the station in life is, may secure a wonderfully good return in proportion to the extent of his operations—a return that is unequalled by any other individual branch of farming.

"But to make the utmost out of this or any other occupation it is absolutely necessary that every detail in the management may be turned to advantage. Perhaps more failures are attributable to want of experience than to anything else. This does not mean that unless one has had a thorough training in poultry culture one should not keep fowls, or, if one does, that failure is the inevitable end. It is only when a start is made on a very large scale, without knowledge or experience, that failure is almost sure to follow. The man who starts with a few fowl and undertakes the work himself gains experience day by day, and when his establishment develops he is well able to face any emergency that may arise, and to overcome difficulties that would entirely overwhelm the man who had started on a large scale with little or no experience."

Portable Racks Are Useful.

This is a good way of making a portable feed rack. The runners are 2 by 12 stuff, ten feet long, rounded at each end. The rack is twelve feet wide, and three pieces of 2 by 6 stuff are nailed between the runners to make a solid foundation. The uprights are 2 by 4 and may be as long as desired. The rack boards are 1 by 6 inch stuff and if the rack is very high should be braced in the middle. Above the runners and on each end is a 1 by 12 inch board, making the manger two feet from the ground. This with the floor in the bottom keeps the stock from wasting the hay or straw.

Sometimes it is bribery and sometimes it is patriotic regard for the pocketbook and special interests; all depends on the point of view.

The trouble about being prepared for the worst is that it is so apt to make some people so prepared dead weight for it to happen.

"ANURIC!" THE NEWEST DISCOVERY IN CHEMISTRY

This is a recent discovery of Doctor Pierce, who is head of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute at Buffalo, N. Y. Experiments at Doctor Pierce's Hospital for several years proved that there is no other eliminator of uric acid that can be compared to it. For those easily recognized symptoms of inflammation—as backache, scalding urine and frequent urination, as well as sediment in the urine, or if uric acid in the blood has caused rheumatism, it is simply wonderful how surely "Anuric" acts. The best of results are always obtained in cases of acute rheumatism in the joints, in gravel and gout, and invariably the pains and stiffness which so frequently and persistently accompany the disease rapidly disappear.

Go to your nearest drug store and simply ask for a 50-cent package of "Anuric," manufactured by Dr. Pierce, or send 10 cents to Dr. Pierce for a large trial package. If you suspect kidney or bladder trouble, send him a sample of your water and describe symptoms. Doctor Pierce's chemist will examine it, then Dr. Pierce will report to you, without fee or charge.

NOTE:—French scientists affirm that "Anuric" is thirty-seven times more active than lithia in eliminating uric acid, and is a harmless but reliable chemical compound that may be safely given to children, but should be used only by grown-ups who actually wish to restore their kidneys to perfect health, by conscientiously using one box—or more in extreme cases—as "Anuric" (thanks to Doctor Pierce's achievement) is by far the most perfect kidney and bladder corrector obtainable.

Dr. Pierce's Pellets are the original Little Liver Pills. One little Pellet for a laxative—three for a cathartic.

Sudden Croup!

Will you be wakened tonight by the dreaded sound of a croupy cough—and see the little sufferer gasp and choke without being able to help? Not if you have the old, reliable Chamberlain's Cough Remedy at hand. It gives relief at once. It liquefies the dangerous, choking phlegm so it is easily expelled. It heals up the sore, cough-racked throat and prevents further attacks. For Croup, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, as well as simple coughs and colds, Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a safe and reliable medicine. Give it at the very first symptom. Keep Chamberlain's at hand. All Druggists, 25c and 50c.

Moved by Mr. Roblin, seconded by Mr. Chalmers, that the Township of Adolphustown be allowed County Road overdraft of $400.00, to be paid back out of that Township County Road appropriation, 1917. Carried.

Moved by Mr. Harrison, seconded by Mr. Kimmerly, that the Council express to the Department of Agriculture at Toronto its desire that Mr. G. B. Curran be left his full time in the discharging of his duties to this County at the time of year that Rural Fairs are held, since his being absent as Judge at Rural Fairs in other counties as required by the Department, seriously effects the success of the Rural Fairs in our own County, as his services are required in preparation for, as well as attendance at our Fairs. Carried.

On motion Council adjourned until to-morrow at 9.30 a.m.

SATURDAY MORNING.

Council met at 9.30 a.m., pursuant to adjournment.

Moved by Mr. Hicks, seconded by Mr. Longmore, that this Council appropriate $500.00 of County Road moneys for the purposes of repaving that portion of the York Road passing through North Fredericksburgh, provided that the Town of Napanee and the Township of North Fredericksburgh supply $100.00 each for said purposes. Provided also that the Government grant $700.00 for said purposes, and that a Committee be appointed to wait on the Minister of Public Works in reference thereto. Carried.

Moved by Mr. Kimmerly, seconded by Mr. Irish, that the Roads and Bridges Committee, Warden, Councilors Kimmerly and Irish, and County Road Superintendent Anderson be a deputation to attend the Ontario Good Roads Convention at Toronto, and regarding Colonization Road moneys, and also to present to the Minister of Public Works the foregoing resolution relating to repairs to York Road. Carried.

On motion the claim of Charles E. Lowry was laid over till March session.

Moved by Mr. Roblin, seconded by Mr. Waite, whereas the Municipality large amounts of money in the construction of Public Highways, we are of the opinion that the care of the roads is now neglected, and be it resolved that we ask the Honorable Minister of Public Works at Toronto, through our representative member, T. G. Carscallen, Esq., to legislate for all wagons carrying heavy loads that they be fitted with wide tires. Carried.

On motion Council adjourned at call of the Warden.

Oh, it's great
And splendid stuff!
But one soon
May get enough.

Johnnie's Explanation.

"Oh, hello, Johnnie! You seem in an awful hurry."

"Well, I ain't."

"Why are you running so frantically,
then?"

"You know me mudder?"

"Yes."

"That's why."

"Don't understand."

"Well, she is in an awful hurry, and she is mad."

Not to Hurt.

While investigations rumble
As the crowds for vengeance roar
Notice how the prices tumble—
Sometimes half a cent or more.

When the fury has been wasted
And the hubbub is no more,
Then the prices will be pasted
Up to where they were before.

You may paste this in the shanty
Where it later can be found
That we'll always have to ante
If we're going to stick around.

Shrewd Girl.

"They say she is very pretty."

"Yes, and she is going to have a rich
dad."

"Rich dad? That sounds good. Going to have, did you say?"

"Yes."

"Her old man about to strike oil?"

"No; she is going to marry Johnnie's
dad."

The funeral of the late Mrs. David Rowse took place last Saturday in St. John's Church, Bath. The funeral was largely attended showing the high esteem in which she was held. The remains of Mrs. Rowse were placed in the vault at Bath.

The funeral of the late Mrs. F. Thomas took place at the Union Church, Ernestown Station, on Sunday last, and was conducted by Mr. Workman, Presbyterian, and Mr. Barnes, Methodist. Mrs. Thomas passed away on Jan. 21st, after an illness extending over a year. She was a great sufferer, and death came as a happy release. Her maiden name was Alida Laughlin.

Mr. J. P. Hanley, of the Napanee Custom's House, died very suddenly on Wednesday. Mr. Hanley had been in poor health for some months, and was preparing to go to the Hotel Dieu for treatment when the end came. Deceased was for a long number of years station agent for the Grand Trunk Railway, at Napanee, and latterly landing waiter for the Custom's House. His familiar figure will be missed by his many friends who extend their sympathies to his widow.

Miss Laura Ryerson, daughter of Surgeon-Gen. G. Sterling Ryerson, was recently honored by being made Lady of Grace of the Order of St. John of Jerusalem in recognition of her "courage, fortitude and unselfish devotion in the Lusitania disaster." Miss Ryerson and her mother were passengers on the ill-fated greyhound of the Atlantic when the vessel was torpedoed. The two ladies were en route to England to nurse Capt. Arthur Ryerson, who had been wounded while on active service at the front. Miss Ryerson assisted one member of the ship's crew to rescue several women passengers who were floating in the water supported by life preservers after the sinking of the vessel.

Exhibition of Pictures Under Auspices of I.O.D.E. and Schools.

An exhibition of pictures—exact color, fac simile copies of master pieces in private collections to national galleries of England, will be held by the I.O.D.E. and N.C.I. and public schools in the town hall on the afternoon and evening of February 8th, 9th and 10th, in aid of patriotic work. Competent persons will give a short talk on the pictures each day. Tea with cake will be served each afternoon for 10c, and coffee and cake in the evening at the same price. Admission to exhibition 10c.

The Late Mrs. Emma Hitchins.

The death occurred in Toronto over a week ago, of Mrs. Emma Hitchins, widow of the late Richard Hitchins, of Amherst Island, and daughter of the late Mack Huffman and Mary Fraser of Bath. The remains of the late Mrs. Hitchins were brought to Bath on Wednesday of last week from Toronto. The funeral took place in St. John's Church and interment in St. John's Cemetery. Mrs. G. W. Shibley of Napanee, is a cousin of the late Mrs. Hitchins. Two daughters survive. The cause of her death was typhoid fever. Mrs. Hitchins was sixty-three years of age.

LACHLAN MCGOWN.

About two years ago Mr. McGown met with a serious accident in the city of Toronto, resulting from which a paralytic stroke followed. Ever since he never fully recovered, and another stroke occurred on Friday last and he passed away about midnight Wednesday, January 19th. He was born in the city of Montreal, about 42 years ago, and spent his early life in the town of Napanee, where he was a practising druggist. He afterwards conducted an extensive coal business in Gananoque, and about fifteen years ago he took up his residence in Belleville and latterly he successfully operated as a contractor until the accident above referred to. He was a man of quiet retiring disposition and sterling integrity. He leaves a widow and two daughters, Margery, nurse in training at Nichol's Hospital, Peterboro, and Reda, at home. He had also two brothers, William and David, residing in Vancouver, and San Francisco, and three sisters, Mrs. George Reynolds, of Winnipeg; Mrs. H. D. Kelly and Ann McGown, of Toronto. The greatest of sympathy is extended to the bereaved. The funeral took place from his late residence, corner of John and Dundas streets, Belleville, on Friday afternoon. The Rev. E. C. Currie, of John Street Presbyterian church, conducted a solemn service at the house in the presence of a large number of friends of the deceased. The remains were then taken to the Belleville cemetery where the last sad rites were performed. The bearers were Messrs. P. C. Jones, W. P. Clark, David Green, E. Naylor, John S. Henderson, and Charles Panter. Many beautiful floral emblems had been contributed by friends.
